Background and History

In 1987, Northern Virginia was at a crossroads.

A small group of businessmen and private citizens met in early 1987 to discuss what could be done to ensure that urgently needed transportation priorities were advanced and the region's economic prosperity and quality of life enhanced.

The result was the Northern Virginia Transportation Alliance.

What followed was an aggressive effort that put in place the major transportation projects—Fairfax County Parkway, Prince William County Parkway, Route 28 and I-66 widenings, the Dulles Greenway and Virginia Railway Express—essential to the region's transition to unprecedented prosperity and quality of life.

The Northern Virginia Transportation Alliance is a non-partisan, business-citizen coalition dedicated to advancing the best regional transportation solutions.

Full-Time Focus

The Alliance is the only organization focused exclusively on working to make better transportation a reality for Northern Virginia citizens and businesses.

- Its sole mission is to advance regional transportation improvements.
- Chambers, business industry groups, public officials and other opinion leaders depend upon and utilize the Alliance's expertise in developing their transportation policy positions.

The Alliance Difference

Comprehensive Research; Aggressive Advocacy

The Alliance's educational, advocacy and coalition-building expertise is essential to future regional economic prosperity and quality of life.

- Alliance research and communication outreach have impacted and shaped the transportation debate for more than two decades.
- The Alliance web site (www.nvta.org) is unparalleled in providing concise, actionable information on regional and state transportation matters.
- Alliance email Alerts provide timely information on transportation developments and how citizens and businesses can make a difference.
- The Alliance is recognized as an informed, respected advocate at the state, regional and local government levels.
- Alliance coalition-building leadership is relied upon by all major Northern Virginia business organizations to advance major regional transportation improvements.

Solid Track

The Alliance, founded over 20 years ago, has led the way in securing funding for regional road and transit improvements. All through building public and private sector support for

- Woodrow Wilson Bridge
- Intercounty Connector
- Dedicated Regional Metrorail Funding
- Capital Beltway HOT Lanes
- Dulles Corridor Metrorail
- Springfield Interchange

Performance-Based Priorities

Alliance priorities include:

- New Regional and State Funding
- Widening I-66 Inside and Outside Beltway
- Constructing Phase 2 Dulles Rail
- Building New Potomac River Bridges
- Completing Regional Bypasses
- Constructing the Tri-County Parkway
- Implementing Bus Rapid Transit
